PREFACE.

THE Glasgow Stirlingshire and Sons of the Rock Society was constituted for several purposes, one of them being the investigation and publication of matter illustrative of local history. The Society, however, has hitherto done no work of this kind, but the recent issue by the Town Council of their volume of Charters,[1] has afforded it an opportunity of supplementing that publication by a volume containing selections from the earlier records of the Burgh. That there might be no diversion of funds from charitable purposes, a special subscription list was organized, and other requisite arrangements made, by SIR MICHAEL CONNAL and MR. J. GUTHRIE SMITH, for having the work proceeded with, and the present volume is thus published without cost or risk to the Society.

When the Charters were published it was not known that the Council Records, with the exception of a few detatched portions in loose leaves, had been preserved of a date anterior to 1597. Happily, however, MR. GALBRAITH, Town-Clerk, who has readily undertaken much trouble in looking out and supplying such books and papers as were required and could be found, was able to produce no fewer than four complete records of an earlier date. The first of these, which commences in 1519, has been deprived of its cover and a few leaves, and throughout the volumes portions are occasionally indecipherable on account of mutilation or the action of damp, but as a general rule they are in excellent preservation and perfectly legible.

Gratifying as the possession of these four volumes is, it is not altogether hopeless to expect that more of the rich series which was in existence in 1552[2] may yet be secured. If the six missing volumes, embracing the periods 1444-1519 and 1537-44, have not been destroyed (and looking to the anxious care which the Town Council seems always to have manifested for the proper preservation of their records,[1] there is reason to suppose that the books have only been mislaid), they are probably in as good condition and as legible as the other two volumes from which they have parted company. Such of the books as are now known to exist are properly arranged on the shelves of the Record Room; but, till every receptacle in the town's archives is systematically searched, and all books and papers there, embracing the accumulations of at least four centuries, are examined, the ultimate recovery of the lost records need not be despaired of. The four volumes just alluded to had previously escaped observation, simply on account of their having been misplaced or incorrectly labelled.

With the limited space at command, and having in view the desirability of covering as extended a period as possible, the selections could not be made to exhaust everything of interest and local significance contained in the originals. Many of the extracts are rather suggestive of further research, not only in the Council Registers themselves, but also elsewhere.[2] Subject, however, to such necessary curtailment, an attempt has been made to allow nothing of special importance to be passed without some notice, and what is given will, at least, serve as a key to anything else in the record bearing on the subject. Subsequent to the year 1666, when this volume closes, the records are continuous, and appear to be well worth the consideration of those who study the history of Stirling.

[2] The acts of the Scottish Parliament, the Records of the Convention of Royal Burghs, which are printed down to the year 1738, the publications of state records and documents issued from the General Register House, and other well-known works, are now easily accessible to the public, and will not be neglected by investigators of local history. A knowledge of ancient penmanship is required of those consulting the original records, but it may be mentioned that the Town-Clerk has in his custody two volumes of modern transcripts, 1597-1615, made by his depute, the late Mr. R. M. Walker.

A few fragments of old protocol books, which were also recently discovered, have been examined, and abstracts of some of the contents bearing principally on family history, are given in Appendix No. I. In Nos. IV., V., and VI., the tabulated form has been adopted as the most convenient way of giving a mass of statistical information in regard to the town's revenues, and the prices of provisions and produce.

As in the publications of the Burgh Records Society, the abbreviations, which abound in ancient writings, have been avoided, and all words printed in full; and, still further to facilitate the perusal of the book, the letter "u" has been substituted for "v," "i" for "j," and vice versa, in cases where the change is required in pronunciation. Thus the written word "vse" is printed "use," "giue" is printed "give," "Maiestie" is printed "Majestie," and "thaj" "thai." The final letter in such words as "burght," "furtht," &c., has also been usually omitted. But, apart from such deviations, the original spelling, which, it will be observed, especially in the earlier extracts, is extremely variable, has been carefully adhered to. Parts of the record indecipherable, and omissions, have been supplied by words placed within square brackets, a form of distinction also adopted where, for the sake of brevity, the substance, and not the ipsissima verba, of the original is given.

Even those moderately well acquainted with modern Scottish phraseology will occasionally be puzzled by the occurrence in the book of words now obsolete, or disguised in antique orthography. With the view of meeting such difficulties a glossary, containing short interpretations of the more unusual expressions, has been appended.

Although compressed as much as possible, considerable space has been taken up with the Table of Contents and Index. These, it is hoped, will prove both reliable and serviceable to all who have occasion to consult the volume.

R. RENWICK.

[1] This list, occupying 4½ pages, is written at the end of volume 1544-50, the book being for that purpose turned up-side down. Beginning on the second-last leaf, it extends to the middle of the fifth page, and at the meeting-point the regular record stops, thus showing that the list was made up within the period embraced in the volume. The deletions are probably meant to indicate deaths or removals, while new names would be added from time to time. If this be the case, the numbers in the four divisions at the last revisal would be:—Mary Wynd, etc., 86; Bakraw, etc., 98; South quarter, 98; North quarter, 103. Total, 385.

[1] Throughout the greater part of the period embraced in Court Book 1560-6 the practice, which latterly prevailed, of having the proceedings of the burgh court and those of the town council recorded in separate books, was in operation to a certain extent. A few detached leaves of what appears to have been a record of town council transactions in the years 1561-3, along with similar leaves from a record in 1594-7, were discovered while the "Charters and Documents" were being prepared for publication, and extracts from them were given in an appendix to that volume.

Lettere to the ministeris of Edinburgh.

[1] In connection with the introduction, in 1655, of the system of farming the excise and customs, one of the commissioners, Thomas Tucker, who had been despatched from London to assist in the work, issued a report containing a curious and interesting account of some parts of Scotland at that time. In the course of his inspection of the Forth ports, Tucker arrives at "Sterling, a pretty burgh, famous for the strength of the castle and bridge, which is layd over the Firth at that place, this being the head of it, and the tyde flowing not a mile above it. Here live some merchants, but the shallownesse of the river, with the windeings thereof, makeing the way long, and not permitting a boat of burthen to passe up soe high, all goods are entred first and cleered belowe at Burrostonesse, and thence afterward carryed up in small boates as the merchant hath occasion for them."—Miscellany of Scottish Burgh Records Society, 1881, p. 20.

22 October 1655.

Letter from General Monck anent Mr. Robert Rule's supplicatione.

For the right honorable the Commissioners for administratione of Justice, these, att Edinburgh.

I make bold to send you the inclosed petition from maister Robert Rule, and to acquaint you that the councill, from the time that hee served, did intend hee should receive his stipend; and that which was ordered for Mrs. Bennett I am confident it was nott the councills resolutioun that itt should bee takin out of his pay. I thought fitt to give you this notice of itt being, I understand, the businesse will bee before you on Thursday next, that you may doe in itt as you shall think fitt in your owne discretion, and I thought fitt to give you this notice that this gentleman may not receive any injury in this businesse for want of information. I remayne your very loving friend and servant, [Subscribed:] GEORGE MONCK.—Dalkeith, 23° 10$^{li.}$ 1656.

Supplication inclosed.

To the rycht honorabill the lord generall Monke, the supplicatioune of maister Robert Rule humblie sheweth,—That wheras I had an order from the rycht honorabill the court for eccklias ticke materis for the stipend belonging to the secund minister of Stirling for three quarters of a yeare, and that for serving of the cure ther for the tyme, it is alledged that the forsaid order is takine away by a posterior order of the rycht honorabill the counsell of his highnes my lord Protector in Scotland given to Mrs. Bennet, and I understand it was not the mind of the counsell to invalidat or disanull that former order of inquiry, especially since Mrs. Bennet hath noe right to that pairt of the stipend allotted to me. May it therfor please your lordshipp to signifie so much of the counsils mind to the court of justice least I should suffer therby. And your lordships ansuer humbly expectis, [Subscribed:] Ro^T. RULE.

representing the communitie thairof, in obedience to his highnes the Lord Protectouris ordour annent the nominating and appointing ane of their number to conveen and meet with the commissioneris of the burghis of Perth, Linlithgow, Queinsferrie, and Culros, at Sterling, the sixt of this instant, to the intent underwrittin, have nominat and elected, and be the tenour hereof nominats and elects Robert Burne, deane of gild of the said burgh, their verie lauchfull commissioner to conveen and meet with the severall commissioneris of the saidis severall burrowes the foresaid day and place, be ten houers, to make electione of and impower one commissioner for the saidis fyve burghs, sufficientlie qualified according to his highnes the Lord Protectouris order, to conveen and meet with the remanent commissioneris of his highnes parliament to be held at Westminster in England upon the twenty seven day of Januar instant, there then to reasone, voice, determine and conclude in all things which then and there, by comon counsell of the comonwealth in parliament, by God's blessing, shalbe ordeanit upon the weightie affares which then and there concerne the glorie of God, the weill of the church, and good of the commonwealth.

Great seale to Meiklewoods borebreive.

The said thesaurer hes receavit fra Johne Grahame of Meiklewood ten merkis Scottis for affixing the towns great seale to a borebreive subscrivit be the saidis magistrats and counsell to him.

26 September 1659.

The thrie baillies keept in place this yeare.

The counsell, takeing to consideratione the grievance maid be John Buchannan, James Stevinson, and Andrew Buchannan, baillies, that quhair they have been in the said charge these twa years bygone and that (contrair to the acts of counsell maid of before) they being now chosen againe to the said office for this yeare to come, and at the counsellis serious desire hes accepted the same, therefore the counsell for thair encouragement does hereby promise and engadge to them that they salbe keept free of the charge of magistracie the next ensueing yeare, and this thair act abonewrittin, with the saids former acts maid in favouris of the magistrats, are ordeaned to be read publictlie in counsell everie yeare in tyme comeing the counsell day immediatlie preceiding the election that none may pretend ignorance thereof.

22 October 1659.

The magistrats and counsell of the said burgh, takeing to consideratione the great charge and expences susteaned by the inhabitants of this towne and shire throw transporting and carrieing of tach and tallow furth of the same, before candle be made thereof for the use of the said towne and shire, therefore they enact and ordeane that noe maner of persone from this furth presume to transport or carrie any tach or tallow furth of the said burgh without licence of the saidis magistrats and counsell, except what salbe for the use of coal hughes and uther publict workes.

Act against the transportares of tach and tallow.

16 June 1660.

There being a debait in counsell concerning the rowping and exacting of the towns calsey meales, conforme to the tennour of their new chartour, James Howstone, deacone of the cordinars, protested againest the same and immediatlie rose upe and deserted the counsell without licence. The counsell, notwithstanding, continowes the said debait till this day fourteen dayes the threttieth of June instant.

Anent the calsey meales.

30 June 1660.

The proveist, baillies and counsell, takeing to their consideration that they have good and undowted right to the haill calsey meales of the said burgh be vertew of their new chartour granted be the late King Charles the first, of blissed memorie, and that throw neglect and oversight the saids meales hes not been rowped nor exacted ever since the granting of the said chartour, to the great hurt and prejudice of the yearlie common good of the said burgh, therefore the saids proveist, baillies, and most pairt of the counsell, did unanimouslie condiscend that the saids calsey meales should be in all tyme comeing rowped and exacted yearlie with the rest of the comon good of the said burgh, conforme to the tenour of the foirsaid chartour; but Thomas Downie, deacone of the hammermen, and conveener for the present, [and the deacons of the baxters, tailors, fleshers and weavers,] declared (as it was writtin verbatim from their mouthes) that they would have nothing to doe with the towns chartour in reference to any thing prejudiciall to the tradsemen of the said burgh as they were in use and custome heretofore, and that nather they nor their crafts will consent to the rowping or exacting of the saidis meales; upon the which declaration of theirs the provest took instrumentis.

Exacting of the calsey meales.

James Howstone discharged aff the counsell.

The counsell considering that the last counsell day, upon debait maid in counsell in ordour to the rowping and exacting of the towns calsey meales, James Howstone, deacone of the cordinars, had risen and deserted the counsell, and protested against their procedour therein, he is therefore, by pluralitie of voices, declared noe member of the counsell and discharged to be warnit to any meeting of the counsell hereafter till they be furder advysed; and becaus he hes this day intruded himself again in counsell, and vented seditious and mutunous wordis tending to the division of this counsell and incorporation, the provest, for preservatioun of the Kings peace, and preventing of such disorder and confusion, hes in his Majesties name discharged the said James to make any conventions of the brethreen of his calling or of any uthers without speciall licence of the counsell, as he will ansuer to the contrair on his perrill.

18 August 1660.

Meetings of the committee of estates.

APPENDIX.

APPENDIX.

I.—Abstracts of some of the Documents recorded in Fragments of Protocol Books.

1.—1470-1. Hugh Makfersane of Suanleye said that the lands of Auchintole, with the pertinents, were held in capite of the earl of Mar as lord superior, and not of the lord of Forbes; and thereon George lord le Forbes alleged that if it were so it would generate great prejudice to him and his heirs, and might disinherit him and them.

2.—8th January, 1470-1. A venerable man, Sir Thomas Bully, canon of the cathedral church of Glasgow, having consideration of the very many gifts, gratuities, and good deeds, done and to be done to him by a venerable man, Henry, by the permission of God, abbot of Dunfermlyn, gave and granted to master Duncan Bully, canon of Aberdeen, all his vessels and goods, utencils and domicils, for serving the said lord abbot and lodging and receiving him in his lodging within the burgh of Strivelin, on the north side of the High Street.

3.—4th February, 1470-1. In the eleventh year of the reign of the most illustrious King James the Third, King of Scots, in presence of the said most serene lord, the notary and witnesses, a provident man, Malcolm of Kynbuk, by his procurators, resigned and quitclaimed for ever for him and his heirs, by staff and baton, in the King's hands, all and sundry his lands of Estir Glassingal and Westir Glassingal lying in the earldom of Strathern and sheriffdom of Perth; which resignation being made, the King gave and bestowed the said lands to Alexander Broys, son of Alexander Broys of Stanhuis, according to the tenor of his charter to be made thereon by the King under his great Seal. Witnesses: William Murreff of Kyncardyn, John of Colquhone of that ilk, knights, James Schaw of Salchy, comptroller to the King, and others.

4.—9th November, 1475. John Patonsone, younger, bailie in that part, of a noble matron, Christine Cunyngaham, relict of the deceased William Murra of Tulchadam and baron of the barony of Buquhadrok, by reason of conjunct fee thereof, and lady superior of the lands of Chapeltoun of Buquhadrok, at command of the said Christine past to the said lands of Chapeltoun and principal messuage thereof and gave sasine of four merks of land of one bovate of the lands of Chapel-toun of Buquhadrok, occupied at the date of these presents by Gilcrist Angusson (Angusii) to Thomas Narne, burgess of the burgh of Strivelin, and Maurice Drummond of Bordland, attorney, and in name of his daughter Jonet Drummond, spouse of the said Thomas, in conjunct fee.

5.—14th November, 1475. In presence of the notary and witnesses, compeared Duncan Aquhonam and Agnes Makcalpyn, daughter of Robert Makcalpyn of Camquhil, and were affianced together, per verba de futuro, according to the laws of the church, and for marriage to be contracted between them, giving their oaths on the holy Gospels that they had not formerly made any contract with any other persons, but that they might lawfully be joined in marriage. Done in the chamber of the notary the eighth hour before noon or thereby.

6.—15th November, 1475. Marriage was solemnized in face of the kirk between Duncan Aquhonam and Agnes Makcalpyn, by Sir Nicholas Franch, curate of the parish church of Strivelin, within the parish church of the Holy Rood of the burgh, the parties giving oath as above; whereupon an honorable man, William Stewart of Baldoran, and Malcolm M'Clery of Garten, gave their corporal oaths that the said Duncan was of lawful age to contract marriage with the foresaid Agnes M'Calpin. Done in the said church the fifth hour before noon or thereby.

7.—18th November, 1475. Compeared an honourable man, Duncan Makcawys, son and heir of the late Duncan Makcawis, and presented to the notary a charter of an honourable man, John Menzies of Weym, made to the said late Duncan and Marion, his spouse, his assignees and heirs under tailzie, of the five merk land of Blarekeregane and five merk land of Thomcroth, and five merk land of Ardequhylg in the barony of Weym and sheriffdom of Perth; and asked the same to be transumed.

8.—26th January, 1475-6. Before honourable men, James Crychtoun of Rowain and Alexander Speir of Pettincrefe, deputes in the office of great chamberlainry of a noble and potent lord, James earl of Buchan lord of Ochtirhous, warden of the west marches towards England, and great chamberlain of the kingdom of Scotland, sitting in judgment in the chamberlain eyre held by the said deputes at Strivelin, in the tolbooth thereof, personally compeared a noble matron, Agnes Menteith, spouse of an honourable man, John Haldane of Rusky, and presented two letters of obligation, sealed with the seals of the said Agnes and John, made by them to a noble and potent lord, Andrew lord Avandale, chancellor of Scotland, anent the gift and grant to be made by them to him of the quarter and fourth part of the earldom of Levenax and lands thereof, with the pertinents, for the whole lifetime of the said Andrew; which letters being read in a loud and intelligible voice, in the presence of the audience, the said Agnes Menteith, outwith the presence of her husband, touching the holy Gospels, gave her bodily oath that she was not coacted or compelled to grant the said letters, but had done so freely and spontaneously, and for the weal of her and her heirs, and engaged never to revoke or contravene the same, under the pain of perjury, etc. Witnesses: Alexander Cunyngaham of Polmas, Andrew Galbrath of Culcruch, John Muir, bailie of the burgh of Strivelin, and others.

9.—23rd March, 1475-6. William Levingstoun, burgess of the burgh of Strivelin, granted and sold to Thomas Tailyefeir, burgess of the said burgh, and his assignees, all his goods, being in the lands of Kepan Davy, which he had in feufarm from William Strivelin of Kere, viz., sixteen cows, six oxen, seventy sheep, a horse price xx s., v chalders of oats sown in the lands, and half a chalder of barley, for the sum of xl li. iij s. and iiij d., good and legal money of Scotland, paid to him by the said Thomas in his urgent necessity.

10.—8th May, 1476. Sir Thomas Holbourne, perpetual vicar of the parish church of Fossochquhy, of Dunblane diocese, presented to the notary to be read and transumed a letter of assedation of the half of the lands of the west part of Thomcarne and ninth part of the east half of the said lands in the barony of Glasclune, made to the said Sir Thomas and Patrick Holbourne by David Hering of Glasclune and James Hering, his son and heir-apparent.

11.—10th May, 1476. David Drummond of Crannok presented to the notary a charter made by him to Robert Drummond, his son and apparent heir, of the lands of Erthbeg, to be copied and transumed.

12.—15th May, 1476. David Drummond of Crannok gave sasine to Alexander Cunyngaham of Auchinbowy of the 42 s. land of Crannok, in the barony of Plane and shire of Strivelin, according to the tenor of the charter thereupon made.

13.—Alexander Cunyngaham of Auchinbowy, with his own hands, gave sasine to Mariota Cunyngaham, as his assignee, of the 42 s. lands of Crannok for her lifetime.

14.—Robert Drummond of Ermore protested that the sasine, or rather, as he asserted, the intrusion given that day by David Drummond, his father, of the 42 s. land of Crannok to the said Alexander and Mariota, his mother, should not prejudice him or his heirs.

15.—18th May, 1476. Malcolm Forester of Torwood compromitted his faith to a noble matron, Elizabeth Erth, to exchange with her, by way of excambion, the lands of Smithis quarter with the lands of Quylt quarter, and the said Elizabeth should enjoy the lands of Quylt quarter peaceably and freely. Witnesses: Friar John Brown, prior of the Friars Predicants of the burgh of Striveline, and others. Farther promising that the said Elizabeth should have the services of the tenants of the lands of Durysal, Cragmad, and the 28 s. lands of Plane, and of the lands of Tulchhil and Smythis [quarter].

16.—16th May, 1476. Jonet Maxwale, spouse of Alexander Cunyngahame of Auchinbowy, outwith the presence of her husband, gave her oath that she gave her consent, for the weal of herself and her heirs, to her said spouse for leasing and letting to farm to William Burne and Margaret, his spouse, of their lands of Erthbeg for 19 years, and two-parts of the lands of Balcascale and Holhous for 10 years, declaring this to be done of her own free will, and ratified and confirmed the said leases, etc.; and because the said Jonet was with child, and could not go to the judge ecclesiastic, she admitted the notary for judge ecclesiastic, and gave her oath to him.

17.—22nd May, 1476. Sasine was given to the altar of St. Salvator and Sir Thomas Hyl, chaplain of the same, of 18 s. 8 d. from the tenement of the abbot of Cambuskenneth, till he should be lawfully relaxed for 20 halves [dimidiis] of gold, now extending to the value of 20 merks; and he appointed the provost and bailies and community of the said burgh patrons of the same.

18.—14th June, 1476. Elizabeth Erth of Plane, spouse of the deceased Thomas Summervale of Batlaw, passing personally to the lands of Tulchhil, in the sheriffdom of Strivelin, broke and annulled a pretended sasine, or, as she asserted, an intrusion, taken by William Summervale, her son, and Mariota Brous, his spouse, given to them by John Brous, pretended bailie in that part, of the lands of Tulchhil, Crannok, Smithis quarter, Quylt quarter, Law quarter, Cragmad, Durisale, Gart Cabyr, Garbrok, and Fordale, in the sheriffdom of Strivelin and Fyfe, by breaking of a dish, and made interruption by a schedule of paper delivered to the notary. Done on the ground of the lands of Tulchhil, in presence of Malcolm Forester of Torwood, David Forester, his son and apparent heir, and others.

19.—15th June, 1476. William Summervale, son and heir of the late Thomas Summervale of Batlaw, and Marion Brous, his spouse, passing to the principal messuage of the lands of Smithis quarter, Tarbrok, Gart Cabyr, and Durisale, pertaining, as they alleged, to them by reason of conjunct fee, broke the pretended sasine, or, as they asserted, rather intrusion, taken of the said lands by Malcolm Forester of Torwood, and given to him by Elizabeth Erth of Plane, their mother, by breaking of dishes and throwing them forth with earth and stone from the ground thereof; protesting that the said pretended sasine should not fall to their hurt or damage in time to come.

20.—27th June, 1476. Arthur Hamilton, procurator and in name of David Drummond of Crannok, past to the principal messuage of Erthbeg, pertaining to the said David by reason of the decease of the late Elizabeth Erth, the said David's mother, and, by breaking of a dish, broke, cassed, and annulled a sasine, or, as he asserted, an intrusion, of the said lands, with the pertinents, taken by Robert Drummond, son and heir of the said David, and made interruption, etc., in presence of Alexander Forester of Erthbeg and others.

21.—Robert Drummond of Ermore protested that the said pretended breaking of sasine by the said Arthur should not have any lawful power on the said lands of Erthbeg, because the said David was not in possession of the same, but he, the said Robert, had been lawfully seised in the same by the bailie of the said David, lawfully constituted to that effect; and that the same should not prejudice him or his heirs in time to come.

22.—18th July, 1476. In presence of the notary and witnesses, Nycholas Franch, curate of the parish church of Strivelin, sundry times, with a loud voice, inquired of Alexander Cosour, burgess of the burgh, lying on sick-bed in extremis, his eyes shut, if he were obliged in any debts of sums of money or goods to Robert Colly or Alexander Legat, for contracts of marriage between them and his daughters; who responded in a low voice (bassa voce): No. Present: Sir Robert Aldcorne, chaplain, John Aldcorne, Robert Cosour, and Dugal Cosour.

The same day, the said Alexander Cosour appointed John Cosour tutor testamentar to William Cosour, his grandson [nepoti].

23.—4th August, 1476. Sir William Ingleram, chaplain, presented letters of collation of John, bishop of Dunblane, under his round seal, etc., directed to Mr. John Drummond, dean of the cathedral church of Dunblane, which, being received by the said dean with due reverence, he past to the choir and chapterhouse of the said cathedral church, with the said William and witnesses, and assigned the said William to a stall in the choir and place in the chapterhouse called the canonry and prebend of Cummery, and gave him real and corporal possession of the said canonry and prebend.

24.—13th August, 1476. In presence of the notary and witnesses, in a court of justice held on the ground of Daldres in the sheriffdom of Strivelin, by Herbert Murray, justiciar of the King in that part, for certain meiths to be put and perambulated between the said lands and certain other lands of the King, personally compeared John Ros of Grenane, commissioner of the King, and, on behalf of the King, inhibited all lords, barons, vassals, sub-vassals, tenants, and free tenants, within the said sheiffdom, from usurping or making purpresture on any property or commonty on any lands pertaining to the King within the said shire, under pain of law. Present: Thomas lord le Erskine, James Schaw of Sawchy, William Menteth of West Kers, and others.

25.—26th August, 1476. Before John Fresare, official of Dunblane, within the cathedral church of the same, sitting in judgment in the usual consistorial place, compeared John Stewart lord Dernly, on the one part, and John Haldane of Rusky, in name and behalf of Agnes Menteth, his spouse, on the other part, which John lord Dernly presented certain citatorial letters against the said Agnes in a cause of bastardy, who being thrice called and not compearing, John Haldane, her spouse, craved to be admitted in the cause, the other party excepting that it was a personal cause, and therefore she should compear personally, etc.; the judge, with counsel of his assessors, admitted the said John Haldane as pledge procurator for the said Agnes, his spouse, who bound himself to stand in law for her under caution of 1000 merks. Present: Vmfrid Cunyngaham of Glengernok, Mr. Martin Wan, chancellor of the cathedral church of Glasgow, William Elphinstoun, official of the same, John Drummond, dean of Dunblane; Patrick Sandelandis, rector of Calder; and others.

26.—16th October, 1476. William Scheves, archdeacon of St. Andrews and vicar-general of the see by authority of Apostolic letters directed to him thereupon, dispensed with Gilbert Home for defect of birth to possess a benefice with cure. Done in the royal chamber, within the castle of Strivelin. Present: James Schaw of Salchy, William Edmonstone of Duntreth, and others.

27.—17th October, 1476. John Crag, then one of the bailies of the burgh of Strivelin, by exhibition of a penny as the use of burghs is, gave sasine to Sir John Kokburn of Dalgynch, knight, as son and heir of Sir John Kokburn, his father, of the half of a pound of pepper from the tenement of John Colquhone of Lus, knight, on the north side of the High Street, and of half a pound of pepper from the tenement of John Kyrkoud, and 13 s. 4 d. annual rent from the tenement of the late Alexander Cosour, in presence of Adam Bully, then provost of the burgh, and others.

28.—23rd October, 1476. Malize earl of Menteth, sound in mind and body, out of natural affection, and considering the manifold services and most tender good deeds done to him in youth and age by his dearest spouse, Lady Jonet countess of Menteith, in the realms of England and Scotland, gave and bestowed to her for her lifetime a silver-gilt horn gilded on the surface with gold, a dish called le Masar, a silver cup, a missal book, with other things suitable for celebrating mass; nine silver spoons and a silver salt-fat, gilt on the top, having a beryl stone (lapidem birraneum) set in the middle, acquired by his own conquest and industry, from him and his heirs to the said Lady Jonet, and that by placing a gold ring on her finger. Done in the chamber of the said earl, in the isle of Inchtolloch, the second hour after noon.

The same day, the said earl bestowed all and sundry the foresaid jewels on John Graham, his son natural, for his good deeds and services, also giving him sasine of a carucate of land called le Akyr, in the burgh in barony of Port and shire of Perth.

29.—11th January, 1476-7. 30.—18th January, 1476-7. In presence of Henry, abbot of Cambuskenneth, and convent of the same, and notary and witnesses, compeared Sir Thomas Masterton, canon regular of the said monastery, before the abbot and convent chapterly assembled, and surrendered to them for ever the parish church of Tullybody, with all rights, fruits, etc., thereof, as well granted to him by the apostolic see as by the abbot and convent, etc.

31.—1st March, 1476-7. Gilbert lord Kennedy, presented to be examined and transumed by the notary, a charter by the late James earl of Douglas, Wygtoun, and Avandale, lord of Galloway and of the barony of Traboyath, on the lands of Glengennet and le Bannane, in the barony of Troboyath and earldom of Caryk and sheriffdom of Are, to the late Marc of Halyburtoun. Done in the hall of the lodging of the said Gilbert lord Kennedy, within the burgh of Strivelin, in presence of Sir David Robisone, prebendary of the collegiate church of Menybole (Maybole), and others.

32.—3rd March, 1476-7. In presence of the provost, bailies, councillors, and community of the burgh of Striveline, sitting in judgment in the tolbooth, and of the notary and witnesses, compeared Thomas lord le Erskine, procurator for Sir Richard Brady, perpetual vicar of the parish church of Lautheroc (Lotherisk deleted), and perpetual chaplain of the altar of the Holy Rood, founded within the parish church of the said burgh, and surrendered the said altar and chaplainry, with all fruits, lands, crofts, etc., thereof, in the hands of Adam Bully, then provost, and John Crag, one of the bailies, in name of the provost, bailies, councillors, and community of the said burgh, patrons of the said altar, which altar and chaplainry Master Andrew Craguorth, chaplain, craved of the provost, etc., for his services done and to be done to them in many ways, whereupon the said provost, bailies, etc., all assembled together, to the number of 120 burgesses, unanimously conferred the said altar and chaplainry on the said Mr. Andrew Craggorth for his lifetime, according to the tenor of the charter of donation to be made thereupon under their common seal; on which the said John Crag, bailie, at command of the provost, bailies, councillors, and community of the said burgh, past with the said Master Andrew to the said altar of the Holy Rood, and by touching and delivering to him of the book, chalice, ornaments, and horns of the said altar, invested him in the said chaplainry, with the fruits, lands, &c., thereof.

33.—5th May, 1477. The provost and bailies of the burgh of Striveline past to the tenement of the late Thomas Carmichell, vicar of Striveline, in the said burgh, and charged the inhabitants and farmers thereof to answer and obey to William Mane, keeper of the guard (architenens garde) of the King, anent their maills, according to the tenor of the King's letters directed to the provost and bailies thereupon; and also, according to the said letters, ordered Sir Nicholas Franche, curate of Striveline, to remove himself and his goods from the fore chamber of the said tenement, and deliver the keys to the said William.

34.—16th May, 1477. William lord le Grame, in the 14th year of his age, touching the holy gospels, compromitted him to stand, for his profit and honour, to the counsel and ordinance of Thomas lord le Erskin, his uncle; Alexander Erskine, son and heir-apparent of the said Lord Erskine; John Drummond of Cargill, and Mr. John Lyon of Curtastone, in all his actions and rules touching his person and lordship till the twenty-first year of his age complete; that they should cause make a seal for the said William for his actions and defences, to be in the keeping of Thomas lord le Erskin and John Drummond, under closure of two keys, one to be kept by each and to be opened only with advice of the said persons who compromitted them to give good and salutary counsel to the said Lord Grahame.

35.—9th June, 1477. Before the provost, bailies, councillors and community, of the burgh of Striveline, it was solemnly protested that the ward made by them in their court anent payment of custom of wood and timber going out at the port of the burgh should not prejudice them as to their liberties.

36.—20th June, 1477. Before Thomas lord le Erskin, sheriff of Striveline, sitting in judgment in the hall of the monastery of Holyrood of Edinburgh, compeared John Ros of Montgrinan, as procurator for the King, and showed that the King was informed that in the said court a brief of inquest was to be served on the lands, etc., of the earldom of Levenax, purchased by Agnes Menteith, spouse of John Haldane of Rusky, which lands, offices, etc., were in the hands of the King's grandfather and father and himself, not by ward and relief but in property and fee and heritage for ever; therefore protesting that whatever was done in serving such brief should not prejudice the King or his successors as to their property of the said lands. Present: Robert lord Lyle, George lord Huntlie, Sir Robert Sympill, knight, James Schaw of Salchy, Michael Balfour of Burly, David Graham of Gergunnok, Malcom M'Clery of Garten, Walter Steuart of Morphy, and others.

37.—30th July, 1477. In presence of Thomas lord le Erskin sheriff of Strivelin, James Schaw of Salchi, and John Ros of Montgrennan, commissioners in that part of the King, namely, to perambulate and put marches between the King's lands of Buthkennar and the lands of Daldres pertaining to William lord of Abbyrnethy in Rothimaye by assise of the country, unsuspected, compeared the said William lord of Abbyrnethy, and when the commissioners elected certain tenants, farmers, and husbandmen of the said lands of Buthkennar for assise, he alleged that they were suspect and partial because they were farmers of the lands perambulated, and craved they be removed and other persons put on the assise instead, which the commissioners refused to do; whereupon lord Abbyrnethy protested that whatever the commissioners should do in the perambulation should not fall to his prejudice. Witnesses: Sir John Levingstone, knight, William of Menteth of West Kerss, Malcom Forester of Torwoud, John Levingston of Kyppan, Alexander Setoun of Tulibody, and others.

The said Sir Alexander put the right hand of the said William in the said Annabella's hand and, per verba matrimonii de presenti, as use is, fully conjoined the said William and Annabella in nuptial covenant and contract of marriage, who in name of matrimony kissed each other. Whereon all and sundry John Drummond of Gargill, father of the said Annabella, in her name craved instruments. Done in the parish church of Mothill at ten hours before noon or thereabout. Present, the said lord himself, Thomas lord le Erskyne, Robert Douglas of Lochlevyn, David Grahame of Gargunnok, Master Walter Drummond, Sir Andrew Drummond vicar of Muthill, Robert Drummond of Ermor, Robert Grahame, Thomas Grahame, Matthew Forestar, Duncan Forestar, Walter Symson, William Chalmers, and others.

46.—15th March, 1529. Robert, rector of Gilbervy and perpetual commendator of the Priory of the Isle of St. Colmoc (Inchmahome) of Dunblane diocese, holding in his hands certain Apostolic letters or bulls [of Clement the Seventh] past to the presence of Mr. Robert Graham, vicar of Drummond, and required him to put the said letters to due execution, who receiving them with the reverence that became them, past to the high altar of the church of the said priory and gave institution and investure of the said priory and monastery thereof, with fruits, rents, provents, and emoluments, lands, baronies, etc., by delivery of a silver chalice, gilt missal, book, and sacred ornaments of the said high altar, as use is, to the said Robert Erskin, rector of Gilbervy, and invested him in possession thereof; in presence of Alexander earl of Menteth, — Fullartoun of Kinnaber, George Yester, familiar servitor of the illustrious Margaret, Queen of Scotland, etc.

47.—3rd July, 1530. William Broun, burgess of Striveling, for the weal of his soul, increase of divine worship, and support of the faculty of the brethren of the altar of the Holy Blood of our Lord Jesus Christ, of the parish church of the burgh, in wax candles and other necessaries, gave an annual rent of 4 s. from his tenement of land and garden lying in the Bakraw of the said burgh, in perpetual alms; resigning the same in the hands of the bailie, who gave sasine thereof to Sir John Aitkin, chaplain of the said altar.

48.—18th May, 1531, the day of the Ascension of our Lord. In presence of the notary and witnesses, Mr. Alexander Kyd, canon of the Chapel Royal of Striveling, being required by Sir John Clerk, canon regular of the monastery of Cambuskenneth, in name and behalf of the abbot and convent of the same, to execute certain apostolic letters (referred to, but not engrossed), as an obedient son of the church denounced Sir Robert Wemys, formerly admonished and not obedient, in the time of high mass in the parish church of Strivelin on Ascension day, as excommunicated. And on the Thursday the penult of the said month, which was in the third week of Pentecost, the foresaid Mr. Alexander, being so required, openly and publicly denounced the foresaid Sir Robert, vicar in the said parish church, at the time of the greater and high mass as excommunicated with aggravation. And on the Lord's day the 11th of June the said Mr. Alexander Kyd denounced the said Sir Robert so excommunicated and with aggravation, with use of candles, as the manner is, cast down to the ground, and bells rung, to be under double aggravation.

49.—31st May, 1531. Robert Thomson, officer of James Cunyngham of Polmais, past to his lands of Bochaldy in the barony of Polmais Cunyngham and sheriffdom of Perth, and, in presence of the notary and witnesses, cast forth Cristophor Portare, Robert Gentilman, John Carnis, and Thomas Carnis, tenants of the same, with their goods and chattels, in virtue of a precept from the said James, as at the present term of Whitsunday, they all confessing they were formerly lawfully warned beyond the bounds and limits thereof; and from every principal house of each of them took forth a stool or chair and threw it down in token of the execution of his office, the tenants obeying in all things as became them. Whereupon the officer asked of them if they wished to hold the foresaid lands of the said James in tack for the terms to come, and to answer him yearly and termly for the fermes and other annual rents, who all with one voice answered: We do wish; and so he again put in or reponed the same with their goods.

50.—The Lord's day, 30th July, 1531. Sir Adam Sym, priest, procurator of John Makcaw, clerk and familiar servitor of James the Fifth, King of Scots, in the presence of Dermit Makhecardych, vicar or curate of the cathedral church of Lesmore, at the high altar thereof, the dean and other canons of the church not being then present, presented to him a letter of provision with the round seal of Henry the bishop and one of the judges and executors of the Apostolic brief of Clement the Seventh, on certain benefices specially granted to the King; which Dermit received and gave to the notary to read, and then asked it back; and after, by delivery of a silver chalice, gilt missal book, key of the door, and ornaments of the high altar, gave investiture of the archdiaconate of the said cathedral church of Lesmore, with fruits, rents, etc., to the said Sir Adam Sym, priest, as procurator for the said John Makcaw, and assigned him a stall in the choir and place in the chapter, receiving the oath from the said Adam for obeying the statutes of the said church, etc. And thereafter the said vicar warned the parishioners assembled in time of divine service, in their mother tongue, the Irish speech, and all others having interest, to answer and obey the said John Makcaw in fruits, rents, etc.

51.—23rd October, 1531. Alexander Watson, one of the bailies of the burgh of Strivelin, showed that, pending the decision by the court of Rome in the plea between Alexander, abbot of Cambuskenneth, and a venerable man, Sir Robert Wemis, vicar of Strivelin, anent the teinds of salmon of the Water of Forth, the said venerable man licenced and allowed him, the said Alexander, farmer, to levy the said teind in the same way as the said vicar was in use to levy it without disturbance on his part till the decision of the plea; which being determined, the said Alexander binds him and his heirs to restore all the teind received by him to the said abbot and place, etc.

[1] Stirling Fair for the sale of "staigs" or horses appears to have been of some repute from very early times. In the public record office, London, there is preserved a document dated 14 August, 1276, narrating that the King's (Edward I. of England) valet William fitz Glaye is sending his servants to the fair of Stirling, to buy horses and other animals for his use.—Calendar of Documents relating to Scotland, vol. ii., No. 79.

3 See acts as to the "lichter boit," 24 October 1603, p. 107; 19 March 1604, p. 109; 21 January 1605, p. 112; and 5 December 1608, p. 121 December 1607—"The lichter boit sett to Johne Layng for xl. li., and serving the toun at all tymes quhen he beis requyrit." In 1608 the boat w for £53 6s. 8d.; 1609, £66 13s. 4d.; 1610, £80; and in 1611 for £80.

4 In 1612 the "auld gait dichtings" are let for £88, and, in addition, what is apparently a new impost, "gait dichtings of outlands malt £46 13s. 4d. In subsequent years the dues let are described only as "gait dichtings," and latterly "gait dichtings and laidills."

5 As to custom or impost granted for beitting and repairing the brig, see p. 91.

6 1603.—Small customs, "exceptand the customes of the tymmer of Murrayis wold and the nyn pundis of Falkirk custome." See 24 October, p. 107.
